CHAMBER MUSIC AT THE TAPER

Henri Temianka, Artistic Director

Croissants, Coffee and Chamber Music at the Taper has become immensely popular since it was first conceived 11 years ago by music lover Eugene Golden. The spacious outdoor plaza of the Los Angeles Music Center, combined with the intimate Mark Taper Forum, has proven to be the ideal setting to revive an enchanting 19th Century Viennese tradition. On four leisurely Sunday mornings, you are welcomed on the Plaza with complimentary croissants and coffee, followed by superb chamber music inside the theater, under the artistic direction of Maestro Henri Temianka, famed for his witty, fascinating verbal introductions to the music.

In addition to such renowned masters as violist Donald

McInnes, pianist Armen Guzelimian, cellist Peter Rejto and others, you will hear some of the most exciting, rising young stars on the international music firmament. The Lark String Quartet, which will open the Series on October 7th, recently won the prestigious Naumburg Foundation Award, to be celebrated with a concert at Alice Tully Hall at Lincoln Center. The group has toured Europe, America and the Far East, and was featured on the CBS Radio Network. Violinist Margaret Batjer earlier this year was the featured soloist with the Prague Chamber Orchestra during its European tour, and made a number of recordings with the orchestra. She appears regularly at international festivals, including Vancouver and Naples.
